Rooms for Kids

Kids' rooms can be painted with a variety of vibrant colours to make them look peppy and exciting. In fact, keeping walls bright and adding smaller bits of colour will give you more possibilities to make the room creative and playful. Besides, you can repaint the room again when they outgrow their fascination for lime green or Barbie pink walls in few years.

Ideally the paint in your children's room should create a nurturing environment. You may want your kids to wake up with shades that are soft, calm, yet soothing and airy. Colours like rosy pinks, powder blues, soft greens or golden yellow paired with Easy Clean baby-themed stencils,will keep your child cheerful and comfortable.

Blue Chips with Lime Delight

The decor of a toddler's room should be fun and lively. Here is an analogous colour scheme with cute jungle animal stencils from Berger Paints to transform the room into an abode of creativity and imagination. You can apply a shade of pale yellow in combination with blue and liven it up with furnishings in warm accent tones of earthy ochres and browns for a bold look. The effect of blue and lime yellow, particularly in the nursery, calms the child and stimulates good energy.

Red Rendezvous at High Noon

There's a sense of opulence in a room that has been painted with the rich luxuriant shade of Red Rendezvous. This combined with the bright yellow of High Noon creates an attractive contrast, making the room look cheerful yet soft and inviting. Increase the fun quotient of the room with another animal theme stencil in contrasting colours to juxtapose against the sunny yellow walls.

Tuscan Orange on Pleasant View

This complementary colour scheme is inspired by the bold and beautiful sunset shades. A playful colour palette combines both warm and cool tones and fills the room with vibrancy and cheer, without compromising on the touch of warmth. Besides, the energetic theme of orange provides a creative spark to the overall look of the room.

Manhattan Blues with Wedge of Lime

Every colour matched with blue has a specific charm, but when you combine the coolness of blue and bright lemon yellow, you have a winning combination. These two colours with their soft and gentle effect create a sweet ambience that most kids adore. While yellow adds a sparkling vibe to the interiors, the blue makes the room cosy and soothing to the eye.

Rooms for Teenagers

A teenager's room is a place of creativity and imagination. You can get away with bold, whimsical looks and use patterns, stencils and vibrant colours like bubble-gum pink, cobalt blue or sunny yellow. Regardless of who inhabits that room, your teenage son or daughter; you are free to experiment with Berger Easy Clean colour and matching stencils to create a space that delights their youthfulness.

If you're worried about too much bright colour overwhelming the space, pair it with pastels, white on ceiling and the lower portion in your bold shade to tone down the look. However, always remember to paint the walls with Berger Easy Clean to keep them stain and dirt-free all the time.

Leap Frog in a Whirlpool

Let your teenager's taste shine through with a bedroom colour scheme that stands out. Why not have a room that has oodles of attitude. Pick a soft shade of baby blue that teenagers love so much and offset it against bright green walls. Creative use of stencils and highlights with a dark accent shade will infuse your child's sleek, modern space with a splash of colour and energy.

Gauguin's Blue on Island Coral

This colour combination showcases the use of a scheme, for those who favour softer, more pastel tones. The shade of Gauguin's Blue is an elegant choice and works together rather well with Island Coral. The addition of a neutral tone in the form of a white sofa helps to break up the concentration of the pink and blue walls.

Rooms for Family

Family members inevitably juggle a demanding job, the challenges of growing children and personal stress. To manage all this in a cool, composed manner, it is important to make comfort, a priority. After a long, hard day, the bedroom is where we relax and recharge our batteries. A place to grab those few moments of peace and quiet. So the look and feel of an adult's room should be mature, soothing and luxurious.

Shades of ivory and neutrals for base can be the perfect start to a serene design. Moreover, addition of patterns and textures with Berger Easy Clean stencil designs creates visual interest.

Inject a part of the room with colour, by adding a few dashes of brightly contrasting accent shades. Keep the décor flexible to improve the space's richness, depth and overall youthful vibe.

White Aura on Leap Frog

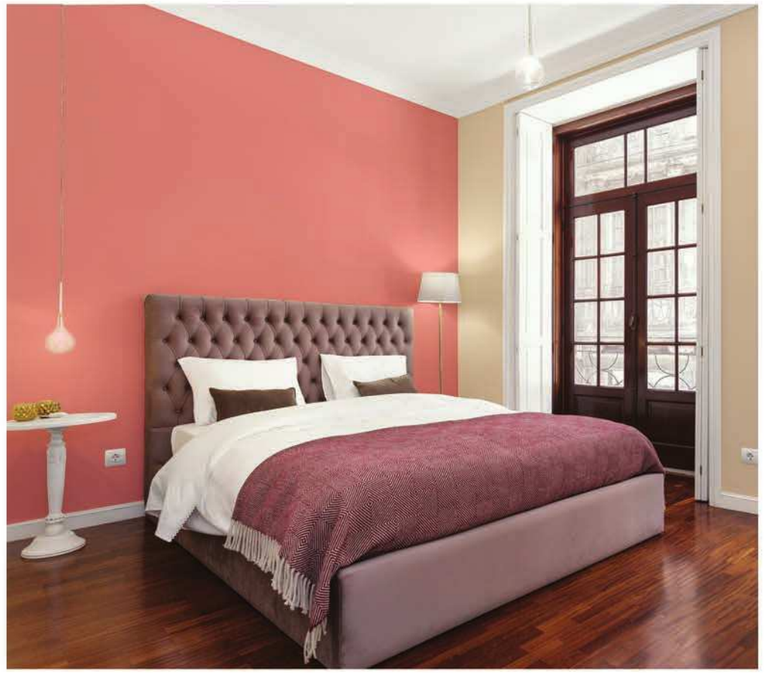

Ivory is a quintessential classic, but its enduring legacy works in modern settings as well. To achieve the look, grassy green is used with crisp white accessories and neutral clean-lined furniture to allow this modern colour scheme to shine through. Besides, a two-colour palette is a welcome break from a colour-saturated world. In this light-filled room, the judicious use of white reflects the incoming natural light, making the greenish walls appear almost iridescent.

Sunwashed Yellow on Jolt of Jade

Bring the feeling of cheerfulness to your bedroom with a scheme of teal blue and a few neutral accent hues. For a serene look, keep the colour of teal consistent and limit pale colours to small doses. When the glow of the Sunwashed Yellow blends with the icy teal, the overall look of the room is bright and cheery, but not overly rich and saturated. The ideal backdrop for family members to connect against after a long day.

Dizzy Daffodil on Bali Blue

An all-white bedroom wall can sometimes look cold and bland. Incorporating a bold mix of colours is a sure-fire way to enliven it. A contrasting colour scheme of peppy yellow and bright blue not only looks youthful and energetic but also gives the room a unique personality. To ensure your bedroom walls look anything but dull, decorate them with playful stencil patterns in accent shades that complement the tone and hue of the primary wall colour. The stencil patterns also add texture and give the room a stylish look and feel.
